ACQUIA ENTERS A JOINT GTM PARTNERSHIP WITH THE COMMERECE GUYS FOR THE DRUPAL COMMERCE DISTRIBUTION

WOBURN MA - August 17, 2011 – Acquia has announced its partnership with Commerce Guys to provide sales and marketing for Drupal Commerce. Drupal, which was built by Commerce Guys, is a software distribution that delivers a wide range of capabilities to build eCommerce solutions. With this alliance, Commerce Guys will deliver the software development and technical product support, while Acquia will provide the sales and marketing, 24/7 support and hosting on the Drupal optimized Acquia Cloud platform.

Together, Acquia & Commerce Guys provide an unparalleled offering of market leading technologies, including Drupal software, Cloud hosting platforms and Acquia Network services to operate and extend Drupal websites. These services, along with Acquia's network of partners, offer organizations unrivaled expertise in the design, development, and arrangement of Drupal-based eCommerce applications.

A key component of many websites is eCommerce and the rise in social commerce applications — such as online product catalogs with ratings, comments, profiles, and forums — is driving demand for a Drupal-based eCommerce platform. With the suite of capabilities in Drupal Commerce, Drupal is exceptionally proficient at providing a joined platform to address an organization's content, community, and commerce needs on the web.

Organizations that build applications with Drupal Commerce and run those applications in Acquia Cloud and/or have an Acquia Network support subscription, will now receive a 24/7 support number to call to address all of their development, operational, and maintenance questions regarding their Drupal Commerce applications.

Competitors of these services require numerous technologies that, in many cases, differ from those for CMS, Social, and Commerce. Organizations can now build the same applications via Drupal Commerce saving a tremendous amount of time and effort with this unique all-in-one service that cannot be found anywhere else.
